

MEDIA ACCREDITATION NOW OPEN FOR THE G7 INTERIOR AND SECURITY MINISTERS' MEETING

Ottawa, Ontario – The Honourable Gary Anandasangaree, Minister of Public Safety, will host the G7 Interior and Security Ministers' Meeting in Ottawa, Ontario, from November 21 to 23, 2025.

Media representatives who wish to cover this meeting must obtain media accreditation.

The media accreditation process is open to journalists (print, radio, television, news agencies, and online media) who are on assignment with a bona fide media organization.

Individuals performing journalistic functions who do not work for a media organization and are unable to provide a letter of assignment will have to provide proof of recent publications under the applicant's by-line that can be readily found in the public realm and under a bona fide media organization.

Government officials, representatives, or observers will not be accredited as media.

To apply, please complete the form at <https://accreditationcanada.gc.ca/Registration-Enregistrement/>, and upload all documentation, as requested in the form. The registration code for media is: UfGcG?u0#CF8

Only applications that include all requested information will be considered.

The application period will close on November 13, 2025. Please note that accreditation does not guarantee access to all events.

Contacts

Media Relations
Public Safety Canada
613-991-0657
mediag7@ps-sp.gc.ca

Stay connected

Follow Public Safety Canada on X, LinkedIn and YouTube

Follow Don't Drive High on Facebook and Instagram